Blaine's Story

William "Blaine" Whitworth was raised on a farm in Garden City, Missouri where he learned the value of chores, hard work and hay hauling. It was during his high school years when he began to grow and challenge the world around him.

Following many family members before him, he attended the University of Central Missouri (UCM) where he quickly came to love his time there and get involved in university life. After graduating in 2009 with a BS degree in Safety, he worked on oil rigs from the Gulf of Mexico to Singapore.

It was his love of Warrensburg that brought him back to "town" where he re-opened Bodie's, a favorite Pine Street Bar & Grill. Six months later he opened his second Bar & Grill on Holden Street, and re-named it Molly's, after his beloved grandmother. He was working hard, regularly seen running between both bars and on top of the world, living his dream!

On September 1, 2012, he was murdered, one year to the day from opening his bar. For more of the Blaine story, please visit our website at blainewhitworthfoundation.com.
